Bay officials claim inaccurate count responsible for low number

BY TRACI BONNEY

The counters are being counted, as the City of Bay St. Louis prepares to challenge the official housing figures compiled during the 1990 Census.

The problem of inaccurate housing and population counts appears to be widespread in the state of Mississippi, according to information given to councilmen Charles Scianna, Jim Rutherford and others attending a seminar Tuesday in Jackson that dealt with how to interpret and use census figures.

The city council voted Tuesday to allow Mayor Edward Favre a budget of up to $1,000 in case it is needed to solicit outside help in conducting a check on the Census Bureau's housing counts.

Favre said the 1990 housing count was 150 houses fewer than the 1980 count. The preliminary population count — which shows that the city gained only five people in 10

The problem with an inaccurate population count, he explained, is that it may result in loss of population-based state and federal monies to the city. If the Census Bureau figures go unchallenged and uncorrected, Favre said, it could mean a revenue loss of between $1,500 and $5,000 over a 10-year period for each person in Bay St. Louis not included in years — is also lower than expected, he added, but because it is a preliminary count and is not considered to be accurate, it cannot be challenged.

rected, Favre said, it could mean a revenue loss of between $1,500 and $5,000 over a 10-year period for each person in Bay St. Louis not included in the census count. "The potential dollar loss is there," he commented. Even though the population count cannot be challenged, Favre said, the housing count can, if there is a large enough discrepancy in the figures.

To challenge the census figures, the city will have to have documented proof that the numbers are incorrect. In other words, city workers will use census maps to go out and recount those blocks that are thought to consist of more housing units than the census figures show.

Favre said Wednesday morning that Rutherford spotted checked three blocks and found that one block had seven more units than were counted.

Bus loading, overcrowding concern students' parents

BY TRACI BONNEY

As the school year starts, parents of Hancock County school students are voicing concerns about school bus overcrowding.

The problem, according to one parent, is so severe that on some buses four or five students are sharing each seat and others are still standing.

Eddie Danzey, assistant superintendent for transportation, said the district is working on the situation.

"It's tearing us up," he commented. "There are a lot of children in the apartment complexes."

"We have 200 more students this year than we did last year."

Danzey said the district is rearranging bus routes and shifting students onto different buses to alleviate the overcrowding, but he acknowledged that more needs to be done.

"I just want to ask the parents to give me until Monday, and I'll have it straightened out," he said.

In an unrelated complaint, the mother of a Hancock Elementary School student alleged that children in kindergarten through sixth grade were being loaded onto buses half an hour before the buses

Hancock High awaits finishing touches

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County School Board attempted to wrap up loose ends concerning the newly constructed Hancock High School building during their Tuesday night meeting.

The wax finishing on floors, lights in the trophy cases, an additional wall and other items were each assigned a price.

The contractor for the new high school discussed the progress of the work, detail-by-detail with the board, giving tentative dates of completion in each area.

Frank McNeil, vice president of the Alternative Education Group, informed the board of the progress and development of a planned school. The school will accommodate high absentee-prone, at-risk students, who will eventually be mainstreamed into the public school system.

The Alternative Education Group is presently waiting to acquire tax-exempt status.

In other business, board members and Superintendent Terrell Randolph voiced their displeasure with The Sea Coast Echo over an editorial which ran on Sunday, Aug. 26 concerning school insurance.

Approval was granted to employ:

—Psychometrist Charlene Lowery;

—Teachers Janet Herren, Amy Compretta Goscinski and Sharon F. Bradley;

—Substitute teacher Lawrence Matulich, Paul Oglesbee and Linda Rester;

—Assistant teacher Lavenia Miles;

A floating picnic

Members of the 'Broke Spoke' try a new mode of transportation Sunday in the Reef Restaurant's Labor Day fest, which benefited the Hancock County Firefighter's Association. The boat, made of two picnic tables on barrels which carried a crew of eight, was the winner in the "anything-that-floats-but-a-boat" race. All types of entertainment were capped with a fireworks display. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Diamondhead road work ditched

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors voted to reject bid work on the West Aloha Drive project in Diamondhead due to lack of monies.

County engineer Larry Seal blamed unexpected damage to county roads caused by last year's freeze and this year's Mother's Day flood to have increased the extent of work estimated.

According to Seal, the road works account does not have enough money left to cover the proposed bid, forcing the board to kill all action at this time on the Diamondhead extension road.

Supervisor Lisa Coward voted to accept the bid, despite board attorney Gerald Gex's input that legally they could not contract work without the money to pay for it.

If surplus funds remain when ongoing road resealing projects are completed, the board may again advertise for bids on the Diamondhead project.

The board also accepted the lowest of three bids for the $450,000 loan to finance the work on T-hangers at Stennis International Airport.

Elroy Schwebel, representing the Garden Isle Civic Association, appeared before the board requesting information concerning two lots in Shoreline Estates which had been donated to the county.

Schwebel, on behalf of the civic association, requested use of the lots for a proposed building to be constructed by the association for community activities.

The board agreed to declare the property surplus and to advertise for bids for lease or sale.

Pat Tracy of Diamondhead requested the board to assist with the sewerage rate increases made by the Diamondhead Sewerage and Water District.

Gex explained that the district is independent of the board and legally able to set any rate.

Gex gave an opinion on the Hancock County Sand Beach Advisory Committee resolutions, saying the first resolution to secure permits to renourish the beach and drainage repairs should be approved. He suggested bids for costs be submitted.

The second resolution, concerning the commitment of seawall and tax revenues being used exclusively for such purpose, was called "a superfluous request" by Gex.

Gex said that by law the monies were already designated only for such purpose, unless not needed.

Dockside gambling issue postponed at Bay meeting

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mardi Gras may or may not come to the Bay. The Mardi Gras Casino Corp., which is seeking to bring a gambling vessel to Bay St. Louis, has asked for and received the city council's support and pledge to join in a lawsuit, if necessary, for a declaratory judgement on the boundaries for dockside gambling.

However, at the council's Tuesday meeting, council attorney John Scafide cited a recent attorney general's opinion stating that dockside gambling is allowed within the Bay of St. Louis. The opinion does not state what kind of vessel can be used for such purposes.

Scafide told the council that a lawsuit may still be needed to obtain a ruling about the type of vessel allowed for dockside gambling, and he commented that a declaratory judgement on the boundary would also be more binding than an attorney general's opinion.

Mayor Edward Favre said the council will not act on the matter until it has heard from Mardi Gras Casino Corp. about their plans.

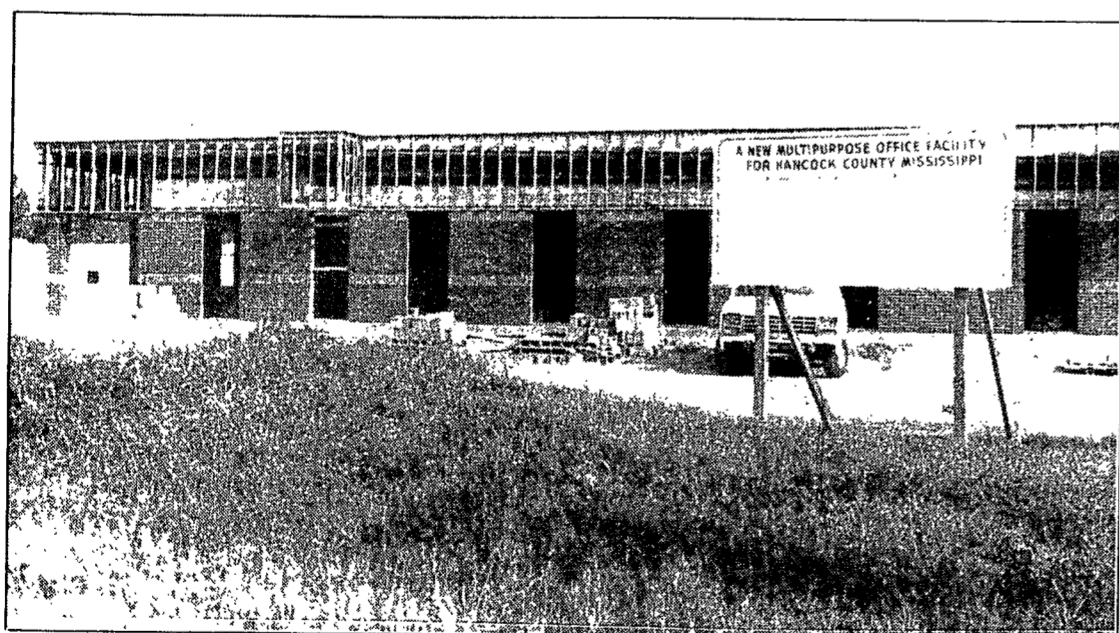

The council also approved a request from Tim Ryan that city employees be solicited for donations to United Way during the upcoming fund drive.

In other business, the council:

—accepted the motor vehicle ad valorem tax assessment schedule;

—named Favre as designated agent and municipal clerk Key Johnson as alternate for contact with the Federal Emergency Management Agency;

—and took under advisement several bids for fire department apparatus.

Name this building

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors invites the public to name the new multi-purpose office facility on Longfellow Drive. The building, currently under construction, will house a number of county agencies. All suggestions should be sent to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, P.O. Box 429, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. The board took the attorney's opinion under advisement. The construction of a culvert on Beach Drive in Pearington was held under advisement while the board waits on monies from a bridge fund.

The board agreed to take action on the culvert within the 30-day bid restriction. The board scrutinized the county docket, finding several errors which were corrected.

Authorization to advertise on September 13 the 1990-91 county budget received unanimous acceptance by the board.

Senator Vic Frankiewicz appeared before the board as the meeting opened to assure each member that constitutional changes in required number of districts per county were in no way meant as a threat to his job.

The senator went on to explain the changes were to keep the constitution from boxing in the legislature and county governments and to allow for adjustment in district size in regard to population.

When the stockpile runs out

As I was getting ready for work Wednesday morning, I started thinking about what the subject of my column would be this week.

For a while, when Dena Bissette was still working here, I didn't have to worry about writing a column each week. At that time I had the leisure to write three or four columns in a single sitting. You could say I stockpiled columns.

However, between the time of Dena's departure and Jacqui's joining us, I didn't have the chance to write more than what was required at the moment.

So, as I was standing in the shower the idea for this column came to me. (Please don't try to read any literary, psychological or philosophical significance into that; that's just where I happened to be when I was thinking about the matter.)

It occurred to me that people in general are packrats. Some might be offended at my calling them this, but it's true.

Oh, some of us are very organized and selective in our packrat-ism. We call these people collectors.

Most of us, though, are just your ordinary, garden-variety packrats. We put this away or store that, thinking, "I might need this someday," or "This was a present from Aunt Susie; I can't just throw it out."

As a consequence, we end up with boxes full of junk stuffed into our closets and attics, or pushed under the bed.

I'm firmly convinced that part of this world's pollution problem comes from two things: our being packrats, and our love of yard sales.

Think about it. You finally decide to brave the unknown jungle that once was a perfectly tame hall closet so you can clear everything out and have a yard sale. So, out come all those "useful items" whose only use in the last three years has been to collect dust and provide housing for spiders.

You dust them off, clean them up, paste, patch and sew, then stick price tags (usually a piece of masking tape with an almost illegible figure scrawled on it) on the things you want to get rid of, then arrange it all as tastefully as possible.

Last, you stick a sign up in the lawn, and maybe tack a few more onto local telephone poles, and you have a yard sale.

So, some other packrats—oh excuse me, I mean "bargain hunters"—come along and give you some spare change so they can have the privilege of owning a few of your useful items.

These items eventually end up either at the local dump or in another yard sale. Those things that survive the dump for a while usually end up there a few years later after having made what I call the "yard sale circuit."

You know what I mean — first, you sell the thing (whatever it is), then the person who bought it sticks it in his/her yard sale. Someone else buys it, and the cycle continues until the item, no longer recognizable or functioning, is finally laid to rest in a garbage bag.

So, as I said several paragraphs ago, I do believe part of our pollution problem is because we're packrats who like to sell our stuff after we've become sick of looking at it.

I guess being a packrat does have its advantages, though. For instance, could you imagine what would happen if the United States' stockpile of weapons ran out?

Let's face it; that's not likely to happen (at least, not while the planet is still in one piece). However, let's just pretend for a few minutes.

Picture this: President Bush receives a call from a dismayed military official who has just discovered that the U.S. has no more weapons in its arsenal. What's George going to do?

It's not as simple as it would be if I ran out of sugar in the middle of baking cookies. If that happened, I could borrow what I needed from a neighbor or run around the corner to the store and buy a bag of sugar.

But what would George Bush do if we ran out of weapons? He couldn't just fly to England, knock on the Prime Minister's door and say, "Hi, Maggie. I'm George, your neighbor from across the lake. Listen, I was just about to start a war with someone, and realized I'm fresh out of nuclear missiles. Could you spare a few dozen?"

At least, I don't think he could. But you never know, with politicians . . .

After a meeting later the same day with officials from the Gulf Regional Planning Commission, Favre said 30 to 35 blocks had been targeted for recounting, and every city employee available was being drafted to participate in the job of checking census figures against actual housing units.

In addition to checking housing counts, the city will check group quarters population counts. This includes counts for such facilities as the county jail and nursing homes.

The city must have its information documented and postmarked by midnight Monday in order for it to meet the Census Bureau's deadline. Favre said he thinks the city will meet that deadline.

He said, "I think our chances are pretty good of successfully challenging the census figures."

He added that those people who were not counted in the census, or are not sure if they were counted, can assist the Census Bureau in obtaining an accurate count for the city through the "Were You Counted?" program.

Those wanting to participate, Favre said, should either call City Hall and ask for a form to fill out and send to the Census Bureau, or call 1-800-898-0728 and give the information to the census workers.

"The information is strictly confidential," Favre said. "It is not given to other government agencies or anyone else."

leave the school each afternoon. "They are put on the buses at 2:45, and have to wait until the high school students get there at 3:15," she said. "It's too hot to do that."

Hancock Elementary School principal Bettye McLeod said that was indeed the case the first day or two, when the students were being familiarized with what bus they were supposed to ride.

"Now, though, the first group loads on at 3 and the second group gets on at 3:05. The high school students arrive at 3:10, and the buses leave at 3:15," she explained.

Hancock Medical Center Kicks Off Prostate Awareness Week

The men who get prostate cancer this year could fill this stadium. Twice.

This year, 106,000 American men will get prostate cancer. Enough to fill Three Rivers Stadium twice.

All men age 40 and over are at risk. One out of every 11 men will get prostate cancer. About 30,000 will die this year alone. Yet many men won't know they have prostate cancer because it can occur and spread without symptoms.

The Good News

Prostate cancer can be cured if caught early. Even if it has spread, the disease can be effectively treated. The ROCKY BLEIER, former running back for the Superbowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers, is the spokesman for the National Cancer Institute's Prostate Cancer Awareness Week.

National Cancer Institute recommends an annual prostate exam for all men age 40 and over. A doctor can do the simple test in about one minute.

Play it safe. Get an exam and ask your doctor about prostate cancer because it might hit someone you know. Like you.

Prostate Cancer Awareness Week, September 16-23, 1990 is Prostate Cancer Awareness Week. Hospitals around the country are offering free prostate exams to men age 40 and over. The test is simple and quick and could save your life.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

High school football goes into its second week with some very good games on tap Friday night.

The Bay High Tigers will drive across town to be entertained by the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws.

Stanislaus edged an improving Pass Christian squad in triple overtime last week 18-15 in a game which could have gone either way. Regulation ended in a scoreless tie.

Bay High dropped a heartbreaker to Pearl River, La. by the score of 20-14, and that game could have gone either way.

Bay High has good fan support this year and Stanislaus always has good support, so Friday's game should be a good one.

I know Kenny Lyons of the Rocks should have his team ready, as will Rocky Gaudin have the Tigers ready for play.

The Hancock Hawks did a job on the d'Iberville Warriors last Friday in North Biloxi, rolling up a 32-6 score.

The Hancock High Hawks this week play host to Pearl River Central in Hawk Stadium.

Pearl River Central always seems to ready for Hancock and they would like to put a blemish on the Hawks' record.

I hope the big win of d'Iberville won't cause the Hancock squad to take Pearl River too lightly.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will be trying to get back on the right track after the close encounter with St. Stanislaus last week.

This week the Pirates will journey all the way to the Hattiesburg area to play North Forrest.

If the Pirates can put together the same effort as they did against the Rocks last week, they could possibly be in the winning bracket.

Coast Episcopal High's Raiders will play host to Camden, Ark. Friday night in Pass Christian.

The Raiders play exciting ball even with a small number of players on their squad.

Your favorite team needs your support Friday night. It should be a good football night, and I hope the stands will be filled with local supporters.

I hope to see you at the ball game.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Gulf Coast ports in farm bill

U. S. Senator Thad Cochran fought successfully for Mississippi inland river and Gulf ports during debate on the 1990 Farm Bill.

On July 26, Cochran controlled action on the farm bill for more than three hours to defeat a special set aside preference for Great Lakes ports.

"It is unconstitutional to try to direct by statute the shipment of any commodities in our country to any one port," Cochran argued. "It is just as clear as it can be in the constitution."

Cochran's first attempt to kill the Great Lakes amendment on a procedural motion to table was narrowly defeated on a vote of 46-50. He then held up Senate action on the Farm Bill until a favorable compromise could be reached with Great Lakes states senators.

In the 1985 Farm Bill a set aside was provided for the Great Lakes ports as a temporary measure to protect those ports which claimed to be disadvantaged by a new cargo preference provision.

Cochran said the four-year set aside, which expired last year, unfairly diverted jobs and revenues from Mississippi and other Gulf States ports and resulted in additional shipping costs that were paid by U.S. taxpayers.

"It should not be the goal of any program to arbitrarily favor four or five lake ports over 30 other ports competing for cargo," Cochran argued.

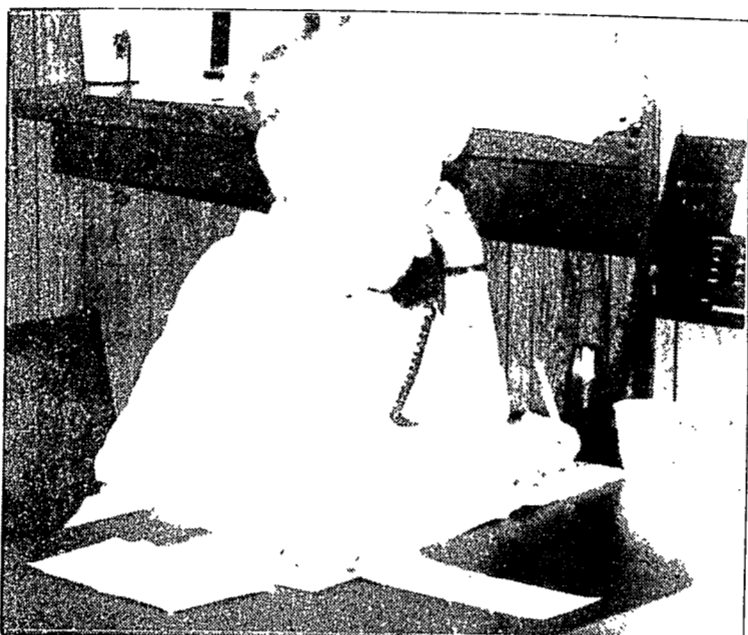

Cochran, joined by Senator Trent Lott and others, explained the fairness of a competitive bidding process during his extended remarks. The prolonged debate, the longest in Cochran's Senate or House career, forced Senate leadership to urge a compromise.

The agreement reached the next day rejected the set aside, and called instead for new bidding rules for federal food cargo, and provided Great Lakes ports with new rules for reflagging foreign ships, all of which was much preferred by Gulf ports over the set aside amendment.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Governor and legislative leaders met behind closed doors

Evidently Gov. Ray Mabus has picked his prime target to run against when he seeks reelection next year: the Mississippi Legislature.

This was the distinct impression legislative leaders came away with after meeting with Mabus behind closed doors at the executive mansion the other day in a quasi-summit on the state's budget crisis.

While it was easy for everybody to identify the problem, namely that the state fiscal condition is in a heck of a mess, how to deal with it was left twisting in the wind.

Rather than wanting to hear about such tawdry matters as the almost inescapable need to raise taxes to keep the state afloat financially, Mabus was apparently more interested in taking about his own political agenda.

Mabus let the lawmakers know straight-out that his polls show he is very popular with the people for his drive to let them vote on a state lottery and to implement his "Mississippi BEST" education reform program.

Tauntingly, Mabus said that if legislators wanted to take away any political ammunition from him, they would pass the lottery and fund the BEST program, because they would be the key planks in his platform when he seeks a second term in 1991.

But Mabus evidently proceeded to thumb his nose at the Legislature, implying that he would make political capital out of the lottery and BEST, no matter what the lawmakers do.

More emphatically than he has ever done before, Mabus left no doubt with the legislative leaders—which included heads of fiscal committees as well as presiding officers in both legislative branches—that if they send him a tax bill, either to meet the growing fiscal crisis or to fund BEST he would veto it.

It was same song, second verse for the lawmakers when Mabus said before he would even consider a tax hike, the Legislature would have to pass the lottery and the $36 million in fee increases he has proposed, both of which have failed twice before the fly.

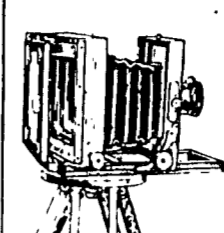

To reinforce his insistence on taking another shot at passing a state lottery, Mabus pointed out to the legislators that over in Georgia, Lt. Gov. Zell Miller, who recently won the Democratic nomination for governor and is considered a shoo-in to be elected governor in November, campaigned for a lottery.

As one lawmaker said after meeting with Mabus, "he feels he is in a win-win situation, that being for the lottery will help him in counties where he is the weakest. All he cares about is his re-election."

The get-together with Mabus seemed to underscore the belief of a number of legislators that the young Harvard-educated governor has not been forthcoming with them about financing the education reforms or tackling the budget deficit which some authorities believe will reach $150 million by January.

Some are convinced that Mabus is playing a high stakes political game by maintaining his anti-tax posture, only until after he is re-elected, and then he will come up with the tax

Concern about wetlands

Mississippi property owners, particularly along the Gulf Coast and in the Delta, are voicing major concerns about new federal regulations which could choke economic development efforts in those regions.

The problem is wetlands and new governmental controls over use of those properties.

No one argues that the wetlands—those lands bordering the nation's waterways—need protection; those natural resources should be preserved.

Now, however, the federal government has expanded the definition of "wetlands" to stretch those designations far beyond reasonable expectations.

Under new guidelines, as much as 40 percent of the total land area of Mississippi's coastal counties is now classed as wetlands, and as much as 75 percent of the lands in the Delta is designated as wetlands.

How far reaching is the new wetlands definition?

A property bone-dry for 51 weeks of the year and wet for a single week may now be classed as wetlands. Now, for the impact—a major portion of Mississippi's prime real estate could be lost to development as a result of these excessive governmental regulations.

One regulator confessed that, at best, property owners can expect to pay more and spend more time in efforts to develop these wetlands as they wade through the federal permitting procedures. At worst, private landowners can be denied the right to develop their lands.

Another problem—designation as wetlands devalues much of Mississippi's prime real estate, resulting in a significant tax loss to the counties.

Mississippians will want to express deep concern about this excessive regulation and this threat to the state's economic advancement.

Tax-exempt status ends for Notre Dame de la Mer

The matter of Notre Dame de la Mer's tax exemption is apparently settled.

The Catholic Diocese of Biloxi, which is responsible for the apartment building for elderly, handicapped and low-income persons, does not plan to appeal a recent Hancock County Board of Supervisors decision to add the complex to the county's ad valorem tax rolls, according to diocese attorney Kevin Necaise.

Gerald Gex, attorney for the board of supervisors, said Friday that the board had not received notification of an appeal during the time allotted for the diocese to object to the board's August ruling.

The board met two weeks ago with representatives of the diocese and SunStates Management, which operates the apartment complex, and the diocese requested that the board reconsider its decision.

However, the board reiterated its intention to abide by the recommendation given by Tax Assessor/Collector Edward A. Murtagh Jr.

Sidelight

Local firefighters are suffering from a nutritional imbalance, or so it would seem from a comment made at the Sept. 4 Bay St. Louis City Council meeting.

Scianna's reply: "We're opening bids for asparagus for the fire department."

Gill netters sentenced

Two gill-netters, charged with fishing violations in the Bay of St. Louis, were handed heavy fines, and one received a jail sentence last week in a Hancock County Justice Court.

Justice Court Judge Lee Klein handed maximum sentences to Charles Cowart, 53, of Route 6, Box 623-K, Bay St. Louis, and his son, Edward Cowart, 31, of Kissimmee, Fla. Klein found the two men guilty after they pleaded no contest to charges stemming from the illegal setting of gill nets near Diamondhead Cut on July 30.

Both men said they will appeal the ruling to circuit court. They were released under bond pending that appeal. An appeal from justice court results in a new trial with a jury in a higher court.

Both men were charged with illegally setting a gill net, fishing with multiple gill nets, having improperly marked gill nets, leaving a net unattended and possession of undersized redfish.

Charles Cowart was fined a total of $2,675 and sentenced to serve 15 days in jail. He was also ordered to pay $642.50 in court costs.

Edward Cowart was fined a total of $2,600 and ordered to pay $475.50 in court costs. He didn't receive a jail sentence.

Klein said Wednesday he ordered both men to pay stiff fines for each fishing offense to "send a message to the public."

"When people commit these fishing violations they're stealing from all of us," Klein said. "Those resources belong to all of us in the state of Mississippi. The resources are depleted already, and incidents such as this depletes them even further. We're just not going to stand for it any more."

The Cowarts were arrested early on the morning of July 30 by BMR conservation officers

Donnie Armes and Lamar Switzer who were patrolling the area when the propeller of their patrol boat snagged on one of the gill nets.

The Cowarts were found hiding in a boat near the net.

Armes, Switzer and conservation officers William F. Collins and Karen Steube had been patrolling the upper Bay of St. Louis regularly after receiving several tips that gill nets were being illegally set in the area over the last six months.

ON PATROL

Detective Tom Burleson of the Bay St. Louis Police reported the arrest of Alvin Nathaniel Bates, 50, address unknown, for a burglary in progress on Sunday, September 2 at 10:30 p.m.

Burleson said the alleged crime occurred at the Family Dollar Store in Marktown Shopping Center.

Bates was seen exiting a 1985 Nissan, commented Burleson, which was discovered to have been stolen from St. Tammany Parish, Louisiana.

The car was released to the owners. Bates is charged with the burglary of a business, said Burleson, and remains in Hancock Jail on a $10,000 bond.

Officers Kurt Raymond and Joe Kepfer assisted detective Burleson in making the arrest.

GRAND LARCENY

A Poplarville man is out on bond following an arrest Aug. 30 on larceny charges, according to Sheriff's Department Investigator Matt Karl.

John Linden Jr., 27, was charged with two counts of grand larceny after being arrested around 2 p.m. Thursday by NASA security police at Mason-Chamberlain, Inc., Karl said.

He said Linden, an MCI employee, was under surveillance by the John C. Stennis Space Center security force at the time of the arrest.

Several items, mainly tools, were recovered, Karl added. He estimated their value at about $1,100.

Karl said the investigation, which involves sheriff's department officials and space center security Provost Marshall Don Coss, is continuing and may yield another arrest in the next few days.

increases that should have been in place all along.

There is virtually unanimous agreement among fiscal authorities outside of the Mabus administration that the educational reforms in the BEST bill cannot be funded in the 1991 legislative session unless there is a tax increase.

The perception that Mabus is using the public education program and higher education as well, as a pawn in his own political agenda is apparently becoming more widely discussed around the state. That could mean he is more politically vulnerable than his polls indicate.

Meantime, the gulf between Mabus and the Legislature is so wide that there is no prospect for it being bridged the rest of this term.

With all the grim prospects of a recession hanging over Mississippi and the nation, one thing this state can ill afford is government by stalemate.

BACK TO NATURE

By Lydia Schultz

Now is the time to attract Ruby-throated Hummingbirds

Special to the Echo
By LYDIA SCHULTZ

When I think of September, I think first of Ruby-throated hummingbirds. It is the peak of their South bound migration to Mexico and Central America that brings them to my yard without fail.

This year the earliest arrival was June 19. It was a female. I never had one in my yard that early for the Southern migration, so I was hooked and couldn't stop watching her as she consistently went to the Anise Sage for her nectar.

She inspected the feeder, which I put in the middle of the yard, but she acted as though she didn't know how to use it, thus, I assumed she was an immature female, just out of the nest and, indeed, may not have had experience with feeders.

North bound migration begins in March and the birds are anxious to reach their breeding grounds. They act differently. They may sip and go. They rarely perch. One may hang around for a few days but that is generally not the case in my yard.

You see, I do not live where there is even a remote chance for them to breed. Their breeding grounds are North of me in swamps, near rivers and lakes.

The most incredible thing I know about Ruby-throated Hummingbirds is that they enter in Mexico and Central America and breed as far North as Southern Canada. That is a large territory for such a tiny bird.

Watching them in the yard this morning was fun. Judy and I joined me and we noticed many mature males with the full red gorget or throat. This indicated to us that their migration this year was slow beginning, explaining the low numbers of hummers in August.

You see, the male precedes the female in migration in most species of birds. I have approximately five or six mature males and most of the others are immature males, as we could see some red feathers on their gorgets.

They came out of the nests just recently. When they return next March, or soon thereafter, their gorgets will be completely red and they will be considered mature males, ready for breeding.

Being little territorial beasts, the antics in the yard can take on many phases. Two can swirl in a slow downward swirl to the ground where they battle it out. They can swirl in a whirl upward until they swerve off away from one another. They frequently knock one another.

When I see two or three on one feeder, though, I know that the numbers have increased in the yard to the point that even they have given up the battle and the food is more important than claiming the source as their own.

If you ever have more than one bird at a feeder, it'll be the end of August or during September. The way I go about increasing the numbers of the hummingbirds in my yard is by putting out lots of feeders.

They should be placed so one bird cannot claim two feeders. So if I have 12 or 15 feeders, then I know I have 12 or 15 hummers. My theory is that birds begot other birds. The noise they make attracts others.

Soon there are 30 and the battle for control subsides to peaceful coexistence. You laugh, huh?

You know hummers cannot peacefully coexist? You're right. The gutsy little guys still fight but many of the feeders will have four on them and four waiting.

I also believe that this time of year the need for the birds to conserve energy stops some of their fighting at the feeders. Sure, they still battle it out, but before they make their flight across the Gulf to Mexico or Central America, they double their weight. They go from approximately 2.5 grams to 5 grams. (One gram is the same as a pack of Sweet 'n Low!) So, you'll notice the birds perching more, expending less energy.

Never give hummingbirds honey. It causes a fungus on their tongue that kills them.

Never let your feeders get dirty or empty. You'll miss the thrill of their presence. Clean every five days.

Never increase or decrease your nectar solutions. One part sugar to four parts boiled water is very close to flower nectar. The metabolism of these tiny miracles cannot stand our tampering. Don't mess with it.

Never take your feeders down on Labor Day to "Make sure the hummingbirds migrate." I know Marty Stouffer on PBS has told us that. But with all due respect to

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Talk about gluttons! My rate of fresh, ripe, tomato consumption is positively disgraceful these late summer-early fall days as I (and I'm sure that I'm far from the only tomato-holic—or whatever hereabouts) race against the sun or wind or rain or what have you to be sure that I devour as many "real" garden-grown tomatoes as I can before the famine sets in!

I know, I know, thanks to modern methods, tomatoes are available all year 'round; yes, even in January's cold and damp days, those golfball-hard tomatoes are there for the choosing, if one must.

But, not for me: I'd just as soon turn to canned tomatoes, with the taste of summer locked in, especially good are the Italian plum tomatoes, in my opinion. Or, even better, tomatoes from my freezer, which I've been tossing into the freezer these days, so that I'll have a taste of summer and fall in the winter!

I freeze fresh, ripe, tomatoes whole on the trays, then package them; and I slice, then freeze tomatoes on trays, also. I freeze quantities of fresh tomato sauce as well.

Meanwhile, of course, I'm enjoying fresh tomatoes, "real" tomatoes, and one of my favorite ways to use them is what I think of as:

FAREWELL TO SUMMER TOMATO PIE

1 pie shell (or, if you're ambitious, make your own or use a mix)

4 ripe, sliced tomatoes, medium size

1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

2 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

1/4 tsp. pepper, dash of salt (optional)

1/2 cup chopped green onions

2 Tblsp. butter

2 Tblsp. seasoned bread crumbs

Basil, oregano, other seasonings of your choice.

Bake the pie crust in a 425 degree oven for 10 minutes or so, until golden. Let cool. Spoon the cheeses into the crust, sprinkle with bacon, and arrange the sliced tomatoes over the cheese. Sprinkle pepper, salt, other seasonings over to your taste.

Meanwhile, saute the green onions in the butter, spoon over the whole business, then sprinkle crumbs over all. Bake in a 325-degree oven for approximately 20 minutes, or just until the tomatoes are somewhat on the soft-tender side.

Secret of super salads: Flavor and texture

Salads are a cool refreshing addition to meals and make great main dishes by themselves. While salads can be served anytime and made from many different ingredients, most of us think of green salads.

There are a number of types of lettuce from which to choose, and one of the secrets of a super salad is to use a variety of them!

If you're in the habit of always using head lettuce, try some of the other types and combine them for different flavors and textures.

Lettuce—head, romaine, butterhead, leaf—are favorites and deserve their popularity for use in salads. There are other green vegetables that have distinctive shapes, colors, textures and flavors that earn them a place in the salad bowl.

SPINACH

Endive, escarole and chicory are of the same botanical family with hard, deep roots and alternative leaves growing from the base of the plant.

Chicory, or curly endive, has narrow, finely-divided curly leaves coming from a yellow-white stem. It adds a bitter flavor and rather prickly texture to a tossed salad. It also makes an attractive garnish.

Escarole is another name for a type of endive with broad green leaves and a well-balanced heart. The leaves are less curly than endive and a paler green. The taste is pleasantly bitter, yet less pronounced than that of chicory.

Factors of quality to look for in selecting chicory, endive or escarole are crispness, freshness and tenderness. Wilting plants can sometimes be freshened in cold water; however, there will be some waste.

Avoid tough, coarse-leaved plants, as the usually delicate, bitter flavor is likely to be intensified and undesirable.

Watercress has dark green glossy leaves on sprigged stems. The leaves and tender part of the stems are spicy and peppery additions to a tossed salad. Watercress is sold in small bunches.

To keep it, cut half an inch off the stems, loosen the tie and place in a container large enough to prevent crushing the leaves. Add an inch of cold water, cover the container and keep refrigerated. When ready to use, wash thoroughly and cut off the tough ends before adding to the salad or sandwich.

Buy watercress that is fresh, young, crisp, tender and rich medium-green in color. It should be free from dirt or yellowed leaves.

Parsley, with its small crinkly leaves, is often used as a garnish because of its lovely green color, but it is so flavorful it should be served with eating in mind.

Parsley is especially suitable for salads containing onions or garlic, since it helps to neutralize their odors. Parsley stems without the foliage, used in white stocks and sauces, add flavor without the color.

Art Museum offers classes

The Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast is offering a basic art course for children and an architectural appreciation course for adults.

Both classes will be held at the museum which is in the Biloxi Cultural Center.

The children's class will meet one Saturday morning a month from 9:30 to 11 a.m. and is designed to teach basic skills for those aged seven to 11 years of age. The first class is Sept. 22.

The adult class is on the history and artistic styles of southern American architecture, especially those styles endemic to the area.

The class will meet for three Thursday evenings in October and will conclude with a Sunday afternoon tour of area examples.

For more information on class fees and times, call the museum at 374-5547.

COLD STORAGE

"Chilling injury" can happen when some fruits and vegetables are stored (uncut) by handlers at refrigerated temperatures and, thus, damaged.

If inappropriately cold stored, bananas and tomatoes don't ripen properly; cucumbers, melons and oranges develop brown sunken areas known as pitting; beans and cucumbers become more likely to decay; and tomatoes may develop off-flavors.

Uninvited guest

Randle Hatton of North Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, views the top of a pine tree blocking his driveway Wednesday morning. The tree was topped about 30 feet above the ground during a thunderstorm Tuesday night. A number of trees were downed in the area, including in Kiln, with scattered power outages reported throughout the county. The Hancock County sheriff's office reported a vehicle was struck by a falling tree on the Kiln-DeLisle Road. No injuries were reported. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Humane Society to sponsor rabies inoculations Saturday

The Hancock County Humane Society will sponsor the rabies inoculations of cats in Hancock County.

Dr. Mullen, DVM, will be the veterinarian who will administer the vaccine.

The first "shot day" will be Saturday, Sept. 8 at Day's Front on Hwy. 90 in Waveland between the hours of 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. This day will be for dogs only. Cats will follow two weeks later. A $1 donation per animal is asked.

Everyone in the vicinity of the Frontier to bring their dogs so they can receive the rabies shot and certificate that is required by Mississippi State Law," said Thyla Rogers, Humane Society director.

Ed Abson, warden of the Waveland Animal Shelter will assist Dr. Mullen.

"If you cannot make it this time, we will be setting up in different areas of the county in the next couple of months. However, the earlier you do it, the better," said Rogers.

Driving program offered

An "Innovative Classroom Driver Retraining Program" for senior citizens will be offered Sept. 13 and 14 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Mississippi Power Building on Hwy. 90.

The eight-hour class is offered in two-four hour sessions and is being sponsored by Classic 55 of Hancock Bank and the American Association of Retired Persons.

For more information, call Sherrell Johnson at 467-5431 or volunteer instructor John Warfield at 832-3836.

County reference summary available

Did you ever want to know the two largest manufacturers in Hinds County? Or the total retail sales in Montgomery County? Or the median household income of Perry County? These facts, along with other concise socioeconomic information for 1990, are now available through the University Research Center's "Quick Reference Data Summary."

"The single-sheet reference guides are available for all counties through the JSU/Universities Center's Information Services Library," said Gina Stone, research statistician for the Mississippi Center for Policy Research and Planning.

"Each county summary sheet includes significant data on population, income, manufacturing, education, employment and sale."

Birds

Most often, we are in South or Mississippi, not the North. But sometimes I think of the height of trees and the way a bird can fly so high and fast.

So, I can feeders up and down the road. I have a lot of birds because we have a lot of feeders from the West and the North.

Diamond named WBSL president

Dan Diamond, television personality, has entered into an agreement with Hancock Broadcasting Corporation for the operation of WBSL-TV, Channel 10, in St. Louis, and will have a major interest in the station.

When the final arrangements are completed, Diamond will be president and chief executive officer of Hancock Broadcasting Corporation and general manager of WBSL. He will also host The Morning Show.

Dan Diamond is known in New Orleans and the Deep South as one of the top radio and television personalities of the last 30 years. The Dan Diamond Show first aired on WNOE Radio, New Orleans, in the summer of 1959.

Born Roy Tullos Hanchey on a farm near Grant, La., Diamond began broadcasting on his hometown radio station in Delidder, La. when he was 15.

Shortly after moving to New Orleans, Dan met a young singer-songwriter named Ty Robin whose real name was Sylvia Glyne Tamplin. Sylvia was reared in Lakeshore and was graduated from Bay St. Louis High School and Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville.

Following a "whirlwind courtship and brief engagement," Sylvia and Dan were married June 5, 1960 in Main Street Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. The Diamonds have three grown children and three grandchildren and now live in Hancock County "just a few yards from where Sylvia grew up," says Dan.

"We love the Mississippi Gulf Coast," Diamond stated. "We live here now, and we want to see this whole area grow and prosper. We are going to do our part."

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1990-1B

TIME OUT

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club finished second behind Southern Yacht Club in the race for the Lipton Cup championship Labor Day weekend hosted by the Pass Christian Yacht Club.

Bay-Waveland skipper Marc Eagan and crew Rene Dupaquier and Marcus Eagan and skipper Bishop Stieffel with crew Corky Hadden and Missy Breath captured back-to-back victories Sunday. A tenth place finish on Saturday pushed the club out of the top slot.

Dennis Stieffel and crew Corky Hadden and Chad Renken earned a third place in Monday's race. Pass Christian finished fourth overall.

Harrison-Hancock Dixie League will elect officials Saturday, Sept. 9 at 7 p.m. at West Harrison Ball Park. Elections are open to the public.

A Community Appreciation 5-K and One Mile race will be held Saturday, September 15. The fee will be $6 for Gulf Coast Running Club members and $8 for non-members. For additional information, call Lindo Sullivan at 832-6071 or Coach James at 864-9691.

Mississippi Gulf Coast Dart Association will hold a 24-hour dart-a-thon with all proceeds going to the muscular dystrophy patients in the state.

From 10 a.m. on September 15 till 10 a.m. on September 16 at the Fleur de Lis Hall, 182 Howard Avenue in Biloxi points will fly to fight MD.

For more information call Vi Benedict at 392-7934, Charles Rushing at 392-0967 after 4 p.m. or Pete Broussard at 432-2691 from 7 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Amanda Theobald of Pass Christian was named international champion in the 1989 Knights of Columbus Basketball Free Throw Championship.

Representing Monsignor Lech Council No. 4472 in Pass Christian, she won the 10-year-olds bracket by sinking 24 out of 25 free throw attempts at the Mississippi state level.

Soccer try-outs for the under 12 select team will be on September 8 at 9 a.m. in Milner Stadium Fields. For more information call Bucky Boyd at 896-8773.

Registration will also be on Sept. 9 at Bay Catholic School cafeteria from 9 to 11 a.m.

Registration will be next week at Coast Episcopal, Waveland Elementary and at North Bay Elementary School at dates and times to be announced. Applications are being taken for coaches and referee trainees.

Anyone interested in coaching, refereeing, or running lines should contact Richard Flowers at 467-0474.

The registration fee for recreational soccer is $30 per youth for the 1990-91 season.

SSC hosts junior high jamboree

The St. Stanislaus junior high Rock-A-Chaws will host teams from Louisiana and Mississippi on Saturday, Sept. 8, in a pre-season jamboree.

Visiting the SSC Stadium will be teams from Jena and Vidalia, La., and Resurrection from Pascagoula.

At 1 p.m., Jena takes on Resurrection, followed by SSC and Vidalia at 1:30. The junior Rocks will then turn around and face Jena in the next contest at 2 p.m.

At 2:30, Resurrection and Vidalia vie, and at 3 p.m. Jena and Vidalia meet.

The final game of the afternoon pits Resurrection against SSC at 3:30.

Games are scheduled to run 12-minute quarters, with the first ten minutes running time, and the last two minutes regular time (stop clock).

The St. Stanislaus junior high Rocks are coached by Mick Quinlan and Carey Ourso.

BHS, SSC to face off Friday

For the past 22 years, Friday evenings at the end of the football season have been important to local gridiron fans.

In the past, it was the last game of the season — Bay Senior High vs. cross-town rival St. Stanislaus.

This year, the game comes early in the season, the second regular season game for both teams; in fact, tomorrow night at SSC Stadium.

Since the rivalry began in 1968, the Rock-A-Chaws have claimed victory 12 times, while the Tigers trail by only two games at 10.

From 1981 to 1986, Bay High dominated with six wins: 14-7; 27-0; 10-7; 46-7; 20-8; and an incredible 52-0 in 1986.

Since then, the Rocks have held the upper hand for the past three years with wins of 22-18, 18-11, and 34-6.

Coming off an impressive win in triple overtime last week at Pass Christian, 18-15, the Rock-A-Chaws realize they've got to work on the offensive plays to match their strong defensive line.

"We were very pleased with our defensive play against Pass High," Rock head football coach Ken Lyons said after the game, "but we were a little disappointed in our offensive inconsistency."

"However," he continued, "we

'hung tough' and did whatever was necessary when it counted. Everyone played very hard and displayed tremendous character."

The Tigers lost a close season opener to the Pearl River, La., Rebels, 20-14. New Tiger head coach Rocky Gaudin cited penalties, missed opportunities and blocking breakdowns as the reasons for the loss.

Gaudin said he thinks the strong link in the Bay High team is its offensive line. "I felt all along we would be strong offensively," he commented.

On the other hand, he added, the inexperience of many team members and youth of some is a problem, but one that will diminish as the team gains more time on the playing field.

Gaudin said the team's strategy plans include improving the execution of the wing-T offense and deciding which of the three defense strategies used in the game against Pearl River will best suit the players and most effectively stop the Rocks.

On the other side of town, SSC's Lyons is planning on a close game. "Our cross-town rival will be as tough as ever, and I know that their new coaching staff will do a good job for them," Lyons said.

"From our viewpoint," Lyons added, "the game may be decided by execution alone, since both teams should be 'sky high.' The team that makes the fewest mistakes may win this one."

Gaudin said his goal is for the Tigers to "put some of the 'rivalry' back into the rivalry" between the two teams.

"On one hand, this game has no meaning, since there is no district or conference significance attached to it. On the other hand, it has all the meaning in the world. The people cheering for St. Stanislaus, these are people we live with and see every day."

The game kicks off tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the St. Stanislaus Stadium.

CEHS falls short of win, 50-35

The Coast Episcopal Raiders and the Parkview Patriots combined for over 1,100 yards in total offense and lit up the scoreboard for 85 points as the Patriots outgunned the Raiders 50-35 Friday night in Pass Christian.

The game, which lasted for more than three hours, saw the Raiders build a 16-8 halftime margin before the Patriots exploded for 44 points the second half to garner the victory. Van Ned of Parkview opened the scoring early in the first quarter on a 10-yard run. The try for two points failed and the Patriots led 6-0.

The Raiders answered quickly as senior quarterback Bruce Hull ran in from five yards out, and sophomore Nathan Guice added the extra point to put the Raiders on top 7-6.

Midway through the second period, sophomore Dave Hagan intercepted a Patriot pass and returned it 27 yards for the touchdown. Hull then passed to Jack Coggins for the two-point conversion to put the Raiders on top 15-8.

The second half turned into an offensive show as both teams moved the ball up and down the field with Ned of Parkview supplying the Patriots' offensive punch.

The Raiders used their spread offense to garner 357 yards rushing and 180 yards passing.

"The reason we were able to run the ball so much is that we had them spread out all over the field," said coach Jack Hutchinson.

Had it not been for some costly mistakes, the outcome of the game might have been different as the Raiders had three touchdowns called back in the second half because of penalties.

"This is the best offensive game we have played in two seasons," said Hutchinson.

The Raiders play at home again this week when they host Camden, Ark. This game promises to be another offensive explosion as Camden was defeated by Riverside 62-48 Friday night in New Orleans. Kick-off is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Pass Christian City Park on Fleitas and Second streets.

Hawks to host Blue Devils

Special to the Echo
By Belinda Liles

The Hancock High School Hawks will play host to another of their long-time rivals, the Pearl River Central Blue Devils tomorrow night. The game will be played at the old Hancock North Central High School as the finishing touches are being completed at the new school's sports complex.

Hancock's head coach Irvin Favre said, "If games from the past few years are any indication of what to expect, you will be seeing a lot of hard hitting, aggressive and exciting football. Nothing less would be expected from a squad coached by Curtis Thaxton."

The Hawks are coming off a big win against d'Iberville in which they defeated the Warriors 32-6 last week.

This game made Hawk history since it was the first time Hancock ever beat d'Iberville on Warrior turf.

The Blue Devils fought a hard loss against Poplarville Friday night, but now have plans of getting their team on a winning track by defeating the Hawks.

"Pearl River has a highly explosive attack led by quarterback Bobby Thaxton, son of Coach Thaxton," Favre said.

"Bobby threw hard against the Hornets," he added.

Coach Favre concluded, "We came out of the game injury-free. This is important since we have a small squad."

The Hawks hope to see a large turnout for their first home game.

Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Pass looks for win against N. Forest

Special to the Echo
By Patrick McKee

The Pass Christian Pirates will grapple with the North Forest Eagles Friday in an away game that starts at 7:30 p.m.

Pirates head coach Joseph Brown expects an exciting contest between the two teams.

"We've got our work cut out for us," he commented Tuesday. "It will be a good match."

Although the Eagles lost last week 13-6, Brown pointed out that many of their players are "big and strong." Brown noted North Forest gave up a total of 280 yards rushing, but their linemen had plenty of talent, and they would be capable adversaries.

Brown also mentioned that the Eagles quarterback Eric Duckworth, although inexperienced, would be dangerous.

The coach felt that the Pirates' main strength lay in their running game.

"We have to get our running game established," he said. "What we do now is what we do best," he added. Brown admitted that last week's loss against St. Stanislaus was partly due to an ineffective running game.

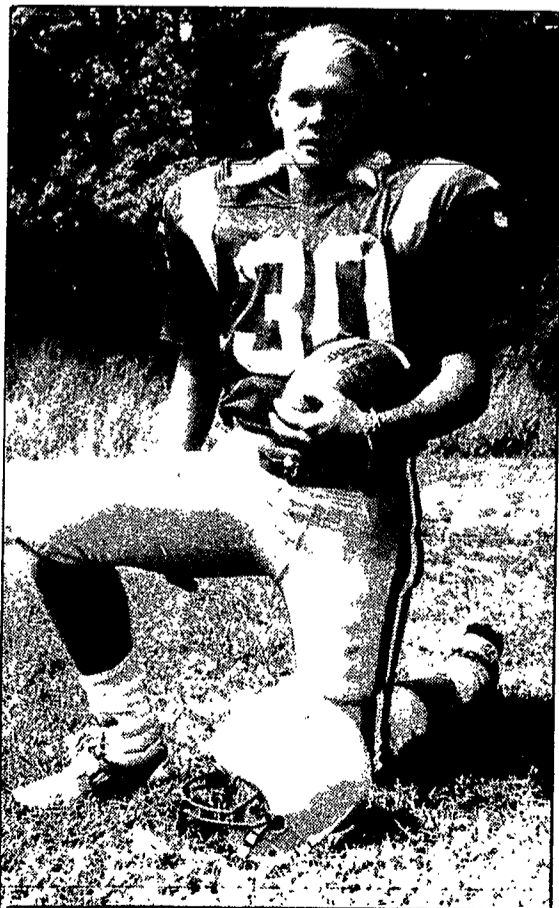

"We never really got anything going on offense," he said. "We were outnumbered at the line of scrimmage."

Coach Brown had high praise for the Rock-A-Chaws, especially for head coach Ken Lyons. "He did a great job," he said.

When asked if there would be any major changes in this week's roster, the coach indicated that there might be a few minor ones made.

There were a few minor injuries last week, such as No. 58 Donald Knight, the Pirates' linebacker/linebacker, hurt his shoulder. The coach did not anticipate any major switches in the roster. "We may make a few changes here and there," he

Raider cheerleaders claim awards

The Coast Episcopal High School Raider Cheerleaders attended summer camp at the University of South Alabama in Mobile in early August.

Some 22 squads from all over Alabama, Mississippi and Florida attended the camp taught by the National Cheerleader Association.

The Raider cheerleaders won two blue superior ribbons and one red excellent ribbon during nightly evaluations and a blue superior ribbon in the final evaluation.

They also won a squad achievement award and a safety first award.

The Raider cheerleader squad was selected as one of seven finalist squads to compete for the 1990 Award of Excellence which was won by Fort Walton Beach High School. This was Coast Episcopal's first time to be nominated for this honor.

The team also brought home the coveted spirit stick.

Senior Leanne Stafford is the captain of the Raider cheerleaders and sophomore Missy Mizell is co-captain. Other members include seniors Beth Holleman, Melissa Cornelius, Katherine Parsel and Laura Taylor.

Also, sophomore Penny Lambert and eighth graders Jesmyn Ward and Becca Emerson. They are coached by Mary Mizell.

Coastal graduates listed

Coastal College attempts to provide the business community with qualified employees who have an understanding of the complex surroundings of the business world.

"We prepare personnel so that they will contribute to the overall business goals of their employers," said director Linda Lockwood.

Coastal College is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and is recognized by the United States Department of Education and the Louisiana Department of Education.

The following people have earned diplomas from Coastal College and are now working in the community. Graduates and their hometown are followed by their employers:

Ora Brignac of Bay St. Louis, Coastal Family Medical Center;

Evelyn Fiorella of Pearlington, Dr. Rashid A. Yazigi, MD; and Jolanda Hammond of Pearlington, Bill Garrett Toyota.

Stephanie Holder of Pearlington, Dr. Sharp & Battles, MD; Barbara Lee and Linda Lee, both of Picayune, All Care, SMH; William Marques of Bay St. Louis, Houston, Texas; and Sherry Smith of Diamondhead, Coastal Family Health Clinic.

Lang elected treasurer of SMPDD

Norman Cedrick Howell, District 5 Supervisor in George County, was elected to serve as president of the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMPDD) for the upcoming year. New officers for the district were elected at a recent SMPDD board meeting in Hattiesburg.

Other members chosen to serve as officers for 1990-91 include Lynn Cartledge of Forrest County, first vice president; Ralph Daley of Jefferson Davis County, second vice president; Geraldine Lang of Hancock County, treasurer, and Lavell Sandifer of Lamar County, secretary.

The Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District is a non-profit corporation established by and for the region's local governments. The district provides economic planning and development assistance, services for the elderly, employment training programs, computer services, and related services and technical assistance in Southern Mississippi's 15 counties.

Since 1966 the district has assisted in the development of $600 million in new public works projects and service programs, some of these being models for the state and nation. The district employs 200 and operates at a $5 million annual budget. It is headquartered in Gulfport and has a branch office in Hattiesburg. The district's Area Agency on Aging has offices and service centers throughout the Southern Mississippi region.
